

IN & OUT IDEAS!

With Serralunga the time has come to take a break from routine, break the mould and experience indoor and outdoor environments in an unconventional way. This path prompts the Biella company to define an idea directed towards tearing down walls between IN and OUT doors with a series of products that are ironic or expressive, basic or decorative but always concrete and functional.

With ever-greater praise for the rotational process, in a philosophy of subtle progression between indoor and outdoor spaces, Serralunga presents Canisse; a sofa and armchair by Philippe Nigro. The structure of Canisse recalls Occitan reeds, designed to be irregular and thick, almost forming a protection. The ever-more sophisticated moulding technology gives the illusion of fusion between the stems - four of the longer stems become the legs of the sofa. Canisse is ideal for outdoor environments while indoor use creates an eclectic effect through decorative functions, in keeping with the spirit of Serralunga Living Different. Andrée Putman's Belle étoile chaise longue is also of note - a classic icon of excellence the Biella company has revisited, combining knowledgeable use of rotational plastic moulding with small fabric components through the use of soft, light and casual mats. The effect is one of practicality and elegance at the same time. The useability of this piece extends to indoor as well as outdoor environments and will become a refuge in which to relax comfortably in your outdoor areas just as you would in your living room.
